The Launch of International Journal of Pharmaceutical Sciences and Drug Research

Dear Professional Colleagues, Researchers and fellow students, I am pleased to introduce the first issue of International Journal of Pharmaceutical Sciences and Drug Research, quarterly peer-reviewed publication. Its maturity is an outcome of the consistent support of high-performing authors, a supportive and professional, dedicated reviewers, many vigorous and conscientious editorial boards and the collective input from the Editorial board members. Various researchers who are active in the pharmaceutical field have been enrolled for providing the necessary impetus for the new journal. We are quite hopeful and shall be grateful to the service that these eminent scientists shall provide to the growth of IJPSDR.

I make certain that the renowned scientists and academicians both from industry and academic institutions all over the world will be enriched by sharing their research experiences through IJPSDR.

Thanks
